BUILDING GLOBALLY RELEVANT OCCUPATIONAL THERAPY FROM THE STRENGTH OF OUR DIVERSITY

Karen Whalley Hammell
PhD., MSc., OT(C), MRCOT.
University of British Columbia,
Vancouver, Canada
World Federation of Occupational Therapists: 2018 Congress Theme

“Connected in diversity; Positioned for impact”
“Western”/ “Northern” world < 20% of global population

"West"/ rest
All theories are inevitably value-laden, because theorists formulate their ideas within specific social, political and historical contexts

(Collins, 1991; Maslow, 1987; Said, 1979, Young, 1990)
Majority of research concerning disability derives from urban regions of Western Europe and North America yet

- >80% of disabled people live in Global South;
- Of whom most live in rural areas;
- High proportion endure severe poverty
Predominantly:
- Adult
- Middle class
- Non-disabled
- White
- Anglophone
- Women
- Residing in “Western” world
“Northern theory”

Embeds the viewpoints, perspectives and problems of Northern Europe & North America’s urban societies
Primarily:
- well-educated,
- urban,
- middle class,
- middle aged,
- able-bodied,
- White,
- Anglophones,
- Judeo-Christian backgrounds
Occupational therapy’s theorists:

Primarily:
- well-educated,
- urban,
- middle class,
- middle aged,
- able-bodied,
- White,
- Anglophones,
- Judeo-Christian backgrounds

= A minority population within the minority world!
When dominant groups fail to recognize their perspectives as perspectives they view their experiences, values & perspectives:

- as universal
- as neutral and objective
“a system of ideas, beliefs and assumptions that operates below one’s level of conscious awareness and, by being taken for granted, appears to constitute normal common sense”

(Hammell, 2006, p. 205)
a political ideology, a mode of governance and an approach to policy that aims “to advance the market as the most efficient mechanism for organizing virtually all aspects of human & social life”

(Esposito & Perez, 2014, p. 418)
The neoliberal agenda

- Cut taxes
- Reduce government spending on health & social care
- Slash regulations
- Foster a social, legal & political environment favourable to private business
Neoliberal values

- Individualism
- Individual freedom & self-interest
- Individual choice & responsibility
- Independence & self-reliance
- People are to blame for their ill-health & social problems
- “Productivism” - people are worth what they produce
“it is only when we understand that social inequalities are human creations designed to benefit a few that we can see the possibilities for challenging inequality”

(Pease, 2010, p. 14)
Neoliberalism “has become incorporated into the common-sense way we interpret, live in and understand the world”

(Harvey, 2006, p. 145)
Independence is admirable, aspirational and universally valued!
Interdependence

Valued by majority of global population who

- Value fulfilment of responsibilities to others
- Do not devalue dependence
- For whom “independence” is an alien concept

“The aim of the most important occupations is interdependence”

(Martín, et al., 2015, p. 86)
“All occupations are divisible into 3 categories”

Activities of daily living, work, play or

Self-care, productivity, leisure
3 occupational categories

Lack supportive evidence, inapplicable across the life-span, devoid of context, simplistic, individualistic, exclusionary, value-laden, culturally-specific, artificially restrictive & culturally unsafe
“All occupations are divisible into 3 categories”

Examining the evidence
Individuals “choose, shape and orchestrate their everyday occupations”
Opportunities to choose are unequally distributed
Occupations may be co-opted, coerced, compelled
Choices may be constrained by structural inequities
Choices are made within cultural “templates”
Triangulation: geometry
Triangulation: qualitative research methods
Triangulation of Occupational Therapy Theory

Incorporating multiple perspectives from our diverse knowledges
Triangulation of occupational therapy theory from our diverse perspectives

- Value of occupations that contribute & connect
Value of occupations that contribute & connect
Value of occupations that foster balance with the natural world
Value of occupations that contribute & connect
Value of occupations that foster balance with the natural world
Value to well-being of occupations through which the land is given care
Value of occupations that contribute & connect
Value of occupations that foster balance with the natural world
Value to well-being of occupations through which the land is given care
Value of occupations that uphold religious & cultural traditions
- Value of occupations that contribute & connect
- Value of occupations that foster balance with the natural world
- Value to well-being of occupations through which the land is given care
- Value of occupations that uphold religious & cultural traditions
- Value of occupations that honour ancestors
What is missing?

- survival occupations
What is missing?

- survival occupations
- occupations that contribute to the care & well-being of families & communities
What is missing?

- survival occupations
- occupations that contribute to the care & well-being of families & communities
- occupations that strengthen social roles
What is missing?

- survival occupations
- occupations that contribute to the care & well-being of families & communities
- occupations that strengthen social roles
- occupations or co-occupations that are shared or collaborative or that foster interdependence
What is missing?

- survival occupations
- occupations that contribute to the care & well-being of families & communities
- occupations that strengthen social roles
- occupations or co-occupations that are shared or collaborative or that foster interdependence

- occupations that are collective, commemorative, celebratory or sacred
What is missing?

- survival occupations
- occupations that contribute to the care & well-being of families & communities
- occupations that strengthen social roles
- occupations or co-occupations that are shared or collaborative or that foster interdependence
- occupations that are collective, commemorative, celebratory or sacred
- occupations that derive their meaning from the context within which they are enacted
What is missing?

- survival occupations
- occupations that contribute to the care & well-being of families & communities
- occupations that strengthen social roles
- occupations or co-occupations that are shared or collaborative or that foster interdependence
- occupations that are collective, commemorative, celebratory or sacred
- occupations that derive their meaning from the context within which they are enacted
- occupations undertaken to honour ancestors, spiritual traditions and the natural world
What is missing?

- survival occupations
- occupations that contribute to the care & well-being of families & communities
- occupations that strengthen social roles
- occupations or co-occupations that are shared or collaborative or that foster interdependence
- occupations that are collective, commemorative, celebratory or sacred
- occupations that derive their meaning from the context within which they are enacted
- occupations undertaken to honour ancestors, spiritual traditions & the natural world
- occupations that are motivated by a desire to care for the land and oceans
What we regard as “common” sense is not common to everyone, but unique, partial and culturally-situated.
Presenting a dominant group’s perspectives as universally valid for everyone is an assertion of colonial power.
“the [occupational therapy] profession’s ethnocentricity appears remarkably resilient as Western assumptions, values, and worldviews are perpetuated in largely subtle and silent ways”.

(Gerlach, 2012, p.156)
Only the privileged can indulge in theory that minimizes oppressive economic, cultural, religious, social, political, legal and policy constraints on people’s lives

(Hammell, 2011; Hammell & Iwama; 2012)
Ngũgĩ wa Thiong’o (1986)

“Decolonising the mind”
Developing critical consciousness of our own assumptions, beliefs, values & biases;
Understanding how our own perspectives may differ from those of other people;
Acknowledging the unearned advantages, privileges & power that derive from multiple dimensions of our own particular social position.
The contemporary history of occupational therapy “has witnessed the North and the West being positioned or positioning themselves both as the source of inspiration and provider of guidance or assistance for the South and the East” (Galheigo, 2011, p.65)
What is occupational therapy’s contribution to society?

“enabling the right to engage in meaningful, purposeful occupations, irrespective of medical diagnosis, social stigma or prejudice”

(WFOT, 2014, emphasis added).

WFOT 2018 Karen Whalley Hammell
WFOT: position statements

“All persons…by virtue of being human, have the right to occupational opportunities necessary to meet human needs, access human rights, and maintain health” (WFOT, 2012)

“The human right to occupation …is ensured by equitable opportunities for participation in occupation, regardless of difference

(WFOT, 2006, emphasis added)
People's opportunities to do what they have the abilities to do

(Sen, 1999, 2005)
The international occupational therapy profession can be positioned to have a relevant & significant global impact

- by building from the strength that is our diversity,
- by working to ensure that all people have the capabilities to engage in occupations that contribute to their own well-being & the well-being of their communities
Thank you!

Special thanks to:

- WFOT 2018 Organising committee
- Canadian Association of Occupational Therapists
- Dr Bill Miller, University of British Columbia
- Dr Melinda Suto, University of British Columbia
- Dr Alison Gerlach, University of Northern British Columbia